Confused by D365FO Ledger Postings?

Ever wondered, "Where did THAT ledger posting come from?" You're not alone! With D365FO, postings come from various non-finance users with actions like purchase order receipts, sales order deliveries and production activities.

Let's turn confusion into clarity with these five tips. Ready to gain confidence in your ledger? Let's dive in!

01

Understand the Source

Different non-finance actions impact your ledger. Warehouse goods receipts, sales order delivery notes, and production operations all generate postings.

Identifying these sources helps trace and understand each entry. Knowing where a posting originates is the first step in deciphering your ledger.

02

Leverage D365FO Tools

Utilise D365FO's built-in tools, like the voucher transactions report using columns like Posting type, Created by, etc.

These data points provide detailed insights into postings, helping you track the journey of each transaction. Make the most of these features to gain clarity on your ledger entries

03

Invest in Training

Continuous training is key. As your team gets more familiar with D365FO, their confidence grows. Genius Consulting offers tailored training and refresher sessions to help your team master the system and understand financial postings better.

Remember, expertise doesn't happen overnight!

04

Collaborate Across Departments

Work closely with non-finance teams.

Understanding their processes and how they affect the ledger can provide valuable context.

Encourage open communication and collaboration to ensure everyone is aligned and aware of their impact on financial records.

05
