

CREDIT & COLLECTIONS MANAGEMENT

Prepared By : SHAIK ABDUL HAMEED

The Credit Collection Aging Report (also known as the Customer Aging Report or Accounts Receivable Aging Report) is a key financial report used to track outstanding customer balances and how long invoices have been overdue.

Definition

The Credit Collection Aging Report shows all customer open invoices categorized by how long they've been outstanding — for example:

- Current (not yet due)
- 1–30 days overdue
- 31–60 days overdue
- 61–90 days overdue
- Over 90 days overdue

It helps you monitor payment performance and manage collections.

Purpose

The main goals of the aging report are:

- Identify overdue accounts and follow up for payment.
- Assess the credit risk of customers.
- Estimate bad debt allowance or expected credit losses.
- Improve cash flow management and collection efficiency.
- Support financial reporting for AR and working capital.

Typical Format Example

Customer Name	Invoice No	Invoice Date	Due Date	Amount	0–30 Days	31–60 Days	61–90 Days	>90 Days
ABC Traders	INV-101	01-Aug-2025	31-Aug-2025	₹50,000	₹0	₹50,000	₹0	₹0
XYZ Distributors	INV-205	01-Jul-2025	31-Jul-2025	₹25,000	₹0	₹0	₹25,000	₹0
LMN Pvt Ltd	INV-310	01-May-2025	31-May-2025	₹10,000	₹0	₹0	₹0	₹10,000

Total Outstanding = ₹85,000

In Microsoft Dynamics 365 Finance & Operations

You can generate this report from:

Accounts receivable → Inquiries and reports → Collections → Aging report

Setup options include:

- Aging period definitions (e.g., 0–30, 31–60, etc.)
- Customer range
- Currency
- Include/exclude disputed invoices
- As of date (cutoff date for the report)

Accounting Use

- Aging Analysis helps calculate Allowance for Doubtful Accounts or Expected Credit Loss (ECL).
- Companies often apply different loss percentages to each aging bucket (e.g., 1% for current, 50% for >90 days).

Benefits

- ✓ Improves collection tracking
- ✓ Reduces bad debts
- ✓ Aids in cash flow forecasting
- ✓ Provides insights into customer payment behavior
